Personal Reflection and Leadership Learning

There is great truth to the maxim, "Leaders are readers." Through your summer reading, you are encouraged to grow as a person and as a leader. The objective is not accumulating information, nor wading through words on a page. It is the discovery and application of life and leadership principles that you distill from the books you read.

1) Which character did you most admire as a leader and why?

2) What life or leadership lesson did you learn from the story?

3) How will you personally apply this lesson to your life?

Please type your responses to the questions
